Mr. Ellie Pooh's Story

Not long ago, Karl (that's me) was not unlike you. He went to school, found a job and worked from 9 to 5 every Monday through Friday. After doing this for a few years he decided that maybe this quotidian lifestyle was not enough for him. He needed adventure and a new life. A life where he felt he had a purpose in the world. Not just for himself, but for the world around him.

While surfing on the web one day, Karl came across various websites where volunteers were needed around the globe to take care of the environment as well as the animals that lived there. Being the huge animal lover he was, he thought it would cool to find out more about these programs that were available. What he found was amazing; there were a wide range of conservation efforts taking place throughout the world. Everything from preserving the coral reef in Fiji, saving sea turtles in Costa Rica to working with elephants in Sri Lanka. Elephants in Sri Lanka? Where the heck is Sri Lanka?? Karl didn't know either, but he had to find out. You see, Karl has this thing for BIG animals. His girlfriend/best friend is a 165 lb. English Mastiff (with whom he sleeps every night) named Renee. Working with these giant beasts would be bliss; at least that is what he thought. They couldn't be much more difficult to deal with than Renee.....right? They certainly wouldn't slobber as much; running around with a towel wiping away slobber after every meal and every walk gives backaches galore! What about the poop? It couldn't be worse than carrying a pooper-scooper for a dog that seems to want to go potty 3 and 4 times on one walk, could it? And so, the adventure began.....Karl was off to Sri Lanka!
