Canvas: For this online course, all course content will be delivered via the Canvas Learning Platform following PSU login.

Course Description: This one credit Pass/No Pass course is built on a series of videos produced by Stephen Carlson, who presents the geology of Mt. St. Helens in Washington state as an online virtual field study. It is an online version of a field trip that starts from near the Columbia River and moves to higher elevations at the base of the mountain on the north side. Students will watch video content, review a Powerpoint presentation, and peruse web resources to summarize content of the “geology stops”, and to assess the hazards of the volcanoes in the Cascades mountain range, thereby gaining an understanding of the geology of Mt. St. Helens and other Cascade volcanoes, and what risks they pose to society.

Assignment: Students will complete an assignment that is due at 5:00 PM EST Dec. 2. The details of the assignment can be found from the Assignments Module in Canvas. Students will use the same module to submit their assignment.

Communication: Use the Canvas Inbox to send messages to you instructor or TA.

Other policies: (a) If you feel you have a disability and need an accommodation, contact the Disability Resource Center (drc@pdx.edu, 503-725-4150). (b) Each student is responsible for all content, whether they participate in the class or not. (c) A culture of professionalism and mutual respect is expected. Any incident of discrimination or discriminatory harassment, including sexual harassment, can be reported to the Office of Equity and Compliance, or the Office of the Dean of Student Life. For resources, see <http://www.pdx.edu/sexual-assault/get-help> (d) Students are expected to follow PSU policies for academic integrity, which means not engaging in academic misconduct; see <https://www.pdx.edu/dos/academic-misconduct>. Examples of misconduct include copying someone else’s work, or submitting for credit work done by someone else.
